Lineup of Two Republican Factions Predicted by Politicians

FORMER MAYOR IS BEING CONSIDERED FOR THAT OFFICE

Charles W. Cool and Harold C. Stafford Are Mentioned for Post

OLD GUARD NOT EXCITED

Discussion Regarding Candidates Concerns Councilman and Supervisor Posts

A lineup of the two Republican factions over city and ward offices, somewhat like that which occurred last fall over the election of a county chairman and the endorsement of a candidate for county judge was predicted by Republican politicians yesterday.

Under the surface of the political sea which is becoming more turbulent every day there is a current for the endorsement of candidates by the city committee. The frequent references to those who have been mentioned for nomination as members of either the Brereton faction or the Old Guard are regarded as a strong indication that if an attempt is made to have the city committee endorse candidates each side will have a man for each office, with the possible exception of mayor.

The two Republicans who have been given the most consideration for that office, in fact the only two mentioned to date, are Charles W. Cool former mayor, and Harold C. Stafford, president of the Common Council. Neither of the two men has any particular connection with the Old Guard and the leaders of that organization are not enthusiastic about the nomination of either Mr. Cool or Mr. Stafford, and are not disposed at least so early in the campaign, to become excited over the nomination of anyone for the office of mayor.

Much of the discussion regarding possible candidates seems to concern the offices of councilman and supervisor, with little or no consideration given to the office of councilman-at-large. Should Mr. Cool be the nominee for mayor, Mr. Stafford will undoubtedly be a candidate for renomination to the office he now holds, but there is only an unconfirmed rumor that the former mayor may again be the Republican candidate this year. Until his name was mentioned it was generally believed that Mr. Stafford would be nominated for mayor. In any event it is not expected that there will be any contest between him and Mr. Cool for the nomination.

Esmond Introduces Bill Appropriating $300,000 For Buying Historic Land

Would Create Temporary Advisory Board on Battlefields and Places of Significance in Campaign Against Burgoyne

ISSUES STATEMENT ON MATTER

Assemblyman Burton D. Esmond, of Saratoga County, the original advocate of the legislation providing for the acquisition of the lands and rehabilitation of the Saratoga battlefields, last night introduced in the state legislature a bill providing for the creation of a temporary advisory board on battlefields and places of historic significance in the campaign against Burgoyne, and appropriating a sum of $300,000 to provide for the acquisition by the conservation commissioner of lands of the battlefields and other lands of historic significance in connection with the campaign against Burgoyne.

In a statement issued by Assemblyman Esmond he explained:

The lands in the measure proposed to be acquired are the remaining lands of the battlefields of Saratoga, as recommended by the former advisory board on battlefields and historic sites and by the conservation commission, and surveyed and mapped by the commissioner. Additional lands are the battlefield of Orinsky; at Fort Stanwix site; at the site of Fort Bull including the 1777 camp site of Burgoyne's column of invasion in the Mohawk Valley; at Orinsky Bluffs, where Herkimer's columns camped on its march in defense of Albany; at Pobles Island, Waterford, where the American army encamped before the battles of Orinsky, Bennington and Saratoga, and from which Benedict Arnold and Learned's Brigade made their dash up the Mohawk Valley; at Starks Knobb, where General Stark made his final stand, cutting off Burgoyne's retreat and compelling his surrender; at Schuyler's Home and the Marshall House, at Schuylerville, intimately connected with the Battle of Saratoga.

Lands Historic Sites

These lands, together with the Bennington battlefield, constitute the historic sites and battlefields in the campaign against Burgoyne, and comprise one correlated group of historic places in this state, where was decided the fate of the state of New York in the Revolution and made possible the American nation.

The state should acquire all of these places without delay. Only a part of some of them have already been taken by the state, and their importance in the history of the nation is the complete acquisition and rehabilitation of these places.

This is a particularly opportune time, as the Governor said on Wednesday at the annual dinner of Philip Livingston's Chapter of the Sons of the Revolution, in reviewing the activities and attempts to have Congress take over the Saratoga battlefields to make it a national shrien, and pointing out that the state will benefit economically thereby — "We should give our children and grandchildren the story of the work of New York in the Revolution in one little set of books." He deplored public school instruction that teaches children to hate England, pointing out the friendship between the two nations as an underlying principle of both governments.

No other method of instruction is half so dramatic, impressive and lasting as viewing these fields where the struggle took place and visioning the position of the different forces and observing the affectionate memory in which the great republic holds these brave and far-visioned men who risked everything, property, liberty and life itself, to create a new nation and a new kind of government, which has become the model of republic everywhere.

Plan of Restoration

Part of the plan of restoration is the marking of these fields and historic sites by the different states, whose men participated in the engagement, and by England in memory of her gallant officers, and Polland in memory of Kosciusko; and also preserving the memory of Baron Steuben and other representatives of foreign nations who aided the United States.

The Federal Government is ready to enter upon a program of rehabilitation and monumentation of these fields and historic places, but the participation of the Federal Governmen, will surely be greatly encouraged and expedited if the state shows a proper regard for these supremely important historic sites within its own borders and so intimately connected with its own history. The participation of the Federal Government is made dependent upon the acquisition of the lands by the state.

The creation of an advisory board contemplated by the bill is for the purpose of coordination and unity of action regarding all of these places, which extend throughout the Mohawk Valley and along the Hudson to the battlefields of Saratoga.

REPORT STATISTICS ON TUBERCULOSIS

Dr. Virgil D. Selleck Announces Figures on Attendance at Chest Clinics

REDUCTION IN DEATHS

Health Officer's Report to Be Given to Board at Meeting Today

Included in a report of Dr. Virgil D. Selleck, which will be submitted at the meeting of the board of health, scheduled for this afternoon, are some interesting statistics on tuberculosis and attendance and travements at chest and other clinics over a period of several years.

A wide variation in the number of deaths from tuberculosis each year for the past six years was shown, but the sum total is a substantial reduction in that period. In 1925 there were twenty deaths from that disease; in 1926, five; in 1927, eleven; in 1928, fourteen; in 1929, five, and in 1930 nine.

The number of new cases reported last year was sixteen, as compared with twenty-eight in 1925, thirty-four in 1926, twenty-seven in 1927, thirty-two in 1928, and twenty in 1929.

Attendance at the chest clinics at the Health Center each year follows: 1925, 124; 1926, 285; 1927, 275; 1928 264; 1929, 345; 1930, 258.

The statistics for the division of maternity, infancy and pre-school follow:

Attendance at infant and pre-school clinics—1925, 899; 1926, 940; 1927, 1,473; 1928, 1,180; 1929, 1,695; 1930, 1,483; medical examinations—1925, 246; 1926, 199; 1927, 216; 1928, 250; 1929, 288; 1930, 206.

Attendance and examinations at prenatal clinics—1925, 55; 1926, 51; 1927, 82; 1928, 77; 1929, 28; 1930, 101.

Attendance at social hygiene clinics follow:

1920, 1,043; 1921, 1,389; 1922, 1,848; 1923, 1,622; 1924, 1,230; 1925, 1,909; 1926, 2,059; 1927, 2,058; 1928, 2,406; 1929, 2,252; 1930, 2,801.
