DID A "LOGICAL CONSEQUENCE"

EVEN RISE UP AND HIT YOU!

A business enterprise may weather almost any kind of a storm if its executive head has a proper respect for "Logical Consequences."—If he does not imagine that they can be evaded as easily as City ordinances. But—its all over with any business enterprise whose director appears regularly as a

AND EFFECT!

The merchant knows that, as to publicity, the size, nature and quality of his advertisement has a direct, positive and inevitable effect on the volume of business done; that this is true on every day of the week—that a dull business day is a logical consequence of inadequate advertising—that poor business is not a misfortune, but merely a foreseeable result of a weak publicity program.

Thus the laws of cause and effect are beneficent or harmful—according to whether we plan in consonance with them or try to flout them.
