MONDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1908.

After a suspension of three months the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange has resumed business at the old stand.
In the meantime, however, the general business of the smoky city seems to have gone on pretty much as usual.Down in New Jersey a stickies auto driver has been sent to prison for nineteen months under conviction of manslaughter. The men who handle machines in that city, hereafter, will be a lot more careful. Jersey Justice is no longer satisfied with nominal fines.When public sentiment really begins to permeate through the thick crust of traditional prejudice, the old school politicians begin to sit up and take notice. Just now he is climbing on the Hughes bandwagon and tooting the horn as loud as the next one.The campaign against tuberculosis in this state has been given a decided impetus through the recent conference held in Albany. The discussions of that meeting brought before the public not only some definite facts of the ravages of the white plague, but some glim of what may be accomplished toward checking its mortality through systematic and properly directed effort. Our health officials take strenuous steps to curb the spread of this insidious disease and epidemics in general, and yet little has been done in the way of curing a malady that has caused a far greater mortality than the severest of other visitations. It is, indeed, time that some comprehensive action were taken in the case of tuberculosis.The tragedy which The has planned for Tragedy in mourning is one in Portugal. Within the entire circle of the world has been illud-do, and the sympathy of all nations wherein there is respect for virtue and organized and law-abiding society, will go out to those most directly concerned in the untimely death of the King and Crown Prince.While there are as yet no definite details of the actual promptings to such a vile and dastardly plot, it is safe to assume that it was the outcome of political intrigue. The apparent effort of the assassins was the destruction of the entire royal family, a purpose which is hardly traceable to purely anarchistic desire.Portugal has suffered much from recent political dissension, but the trouble came from those who objected to interference with the old methods of corruption in public office by which they had profited in times past. They had labored for reforms in the conduct of government affairs. To that work his Premier had joined heartily and earnestly. The effort became an opposition that needed no hand to curb it. Under the application of such pressure the forces of evil retreated. Their revenue found expression in the stirring of a certain classof public opinion against the throne.
The King's liberal views on matters of international relations were used against him. His progressive ideas and purpose to employ them to the betterment of his people brought enmity among the class of politicians who had long fattened on corruption in public office.It is not unreasonable to suppose such elements of enmity and disgritude would spring to even the lengths taken on Saturday. But if such action were intended to defeat public reform, it has failed miserably. Such deeds are wont to stir up the sympathy of the people. Such sacrifices are sometimes necessary to awaken public conscience. The ends for which this enlightened, amiable and progressive ruler labored may be more fully served through his death than by his life. The people of Portugal, the pride of the nations and their moral support of those who have already taken up the dead King's mantle will go forth to that end and with that purpose.There have been Proposals introduced at Albany several bills seeking Reform. To change our present form of ballots, and it is possible that before the session closes more will find their way before the committees. It is highly probable that from these measures there will be evolved some sort of change in the existing law since the Governor has advocated reform in this respect and there are not a few of the leading legislators who agree with him.One of the plans presented provides for a compromise combination of the systems now in operation in this state and in Massachusetts. Under our own ballot law no educational requirements of traditional, "misleading" character are required. The
next one.Such an arrangement will retain the part-cumulative feature of our present ballot while the Massachusetts requirement that the voter shall mark each candidate of his choice is incorporated. Such separate marking is simple and is expected to do away with the confusion which so often follows attempts to split the ballot as at present printed. Retention of the party column idea is equally desirable.
Practically the only real change is in the abolition of the voting circle at the head of the party column and the marking of each name to be voted for would not entail much of hardship or danger of confusion.Another of the bills offered provides that there shall be printed on each ballot providing for a proposed amendment to the Constitution something by which the nature of the proposed amendment may be gained by every elector to whom a ballot is given.
The purpose of a ballot such as that described is to avoid, if possible, the adoption of changes in the fundamental law by a comparatively small number of the electors of the state.Experience has shown that but little attention is paid to constitutional questions by the average voter, and in the majority of cases the meaning of such proposed changes is not understood. The consequence has been that those directly interested in the passage of such amendments have been able to carry them since their names were given to them by the general voting body. We have a shining example of this very evil in the adoption of the bare canal scheme, which is one of the monumental follies of thedecade, and yet one that was added on the entire state by the elevator and terminal interests at Buffalo and New York, which saw the immense important advantage such a scheme would mean to them. Any provision in our ballot law that will serve to prevent such results in the future is a confession of the fact that the law should changes in the fundamental law of the state should be removed beyond the power of any special interests to secure.Trade and Finance Seasonable weather and a further increase in the personal energy of active machinery combined to improve the trade situation during the week, although there is still a large number of unemployed, and dealers proceed cautiously in acquiring for future business, according to Dan's Review. Prices of commodities have declined on the whole, yet products of the leading industries are fairly well maintained. Mercantile collections are irregular, despite ease in the money market. There was little unusual appearing the attention best deserving, as it was realized that these suspensions were only the aftermath of the October panic and represented no new cause for alarm.Railway earnings in January were 12.4 per cent less than in 1907, and for foreign commerce at the port of New York alone for the last week showed a gain of $4,606,915 in exports and a decrease of $1,609,690 in imports as compared with the same week last year.Money is abundant and cheap even mercantile loans being made at 5 per cent, while foreign exchange rates narrow near the point at which gold may be sent abroad. Stocks were regular without attaining any material net change, and sales were the smallest since the beginning of the year.
Gold and the credit financial situation, encourages new issues.Bank exchanges at New York were 28.1 per cent less than in the same week last year, while at other leading cities there was a decrease of 12.8 per cent.New iron and steel plants have resumed and the outlook is brighter, even railway equipment attracting more attention. The situation is better because of the extent to which consumers seek prompt delivery, indicating that the recent season of conservatism has nearly exhausted stocks, and suggesting that when confidence is fully restored a vast quantity of deferred business will be placed. It is said that few orders for cars are so to be anticipated when freight shipments are decreasing and the roads have no money for extending facilities, but these conditions are transient, and already several bond issues have responded to the easier money market.Various deductions were made from the report of the Steel Corporation, but on the whole the figures seem encouraging. It is true that orders for the books are 1,800,000 tons less than on September 20, yet the present supply of forward business would haveIron Rose Verse 32.—The disciples remembered.

Also, how we remember things after our friends are gone! Death explains lots. How could we have been so blind. To your father and mother until it is for the past week suffer memories to sting you when you are gone. You don't see the stars until night comes unless you go down a well. The well of suffering or trouble.
As our dear ones open their eyes in heaven, we open our eyes on earth.
We too, then remember the words they said and believe the Scripture, but, oh, what joy for them had we done it before! It has required the death of the mother to bring many a boy to heaven. In kind—she may be leaving a force, a memory, a kindness, but long no memory.We have considered last year to three years ago. Net earnings in December were smaller than in any month since February, 1904, but October's figures surpassed all monthly records, and the total for twelve months was $4,200,000 greater than in any other year.Statistics of commercial failures thus far reported for January amount ed to $23,546,047, of which $11,811,112 were in manufacturing, $11,737,737 in retailing and $1,700,000 in other commercial lines. Failures during the year numbered 115 in the United States against 245 last year, and 38 in Canada against 55 a year ago.News of

In home use for the family, the new piano is the most perfect of its kind. It is the life and soul of the house, and the most perfect of all instruments and volumes as the Cable-Neumo-Piano.
It has no equal in the world, it is the only one of its kind, it is the
