WASHINGTON FACES ULTIMATE ISSUES IN THE SUSSEX CASE

RACES AT FOXBOROUGH

Changes in the race sentiment were reflected in the manner in which the English and American future were handled. In the latter, the English were at first the leaders, but the Americans were later in the lead. The English, as a rule, are more conservative, but the Americans are usually the leaders in the English market.

PRESIDENT TO ANNOUNCE DETAILS

The President of the English Association, who was present at the meeting, announced that all arrangements had been made for the English market. The President said that the English market was the most important in the world, and that all arrangements had been made for its successful conduct.
